

CAMPING CHAIR BUYING GUIDE

Good camping chairs make a real difference when you're away in the outdoors, making your environment more comfortable and relaxing.

If you're planning a trip and need new chairs, consider the following features:

- A supportive back
- Sturdy design for stability
- Optimal height and weight
- Beverage holders
- Storage pockets

It's wise to pick chairs that are lightweight and easy to carry if you'll be walking for longer distances. Find out if they fold down well to fit your car boot, or can attach to a pack if needed.

Think about the type of ground you'll be seated on, and the height each chair will need to be for the adults or children in your group. And most importantly, choose a strong but light frame, durable materials, one that folds out and away easily and quickly, and compartments or holders for drinks, food and other items.
